Vote On Collaborative Delayed

By Julie M. Barry

The proposed Collaborative School will have to wait until after the April 4 Town Meeting for a vote.

At its meeting Tuesday night, the School Committee accepted a recommendation from the Planning Committee for the Collaborative School Project to withdraw the town article on the Collaborative School.

In a prepared statement, Committeeman Richard Neal said "the Planning Committee for the Collaborative School Project has always believed that any city or town vote on the Collaborative School must not occur until citizens and officials in both communities have had time to review and discuss the details of a final feasibility report." Neal is a member of the Planning Committee representing the Andover School Committee.

The Planning Committee says it can't write the report until two things have happened. First, enabling legislation, which is pending in the Senate Ways and Means Committee, must be passed.

Secondly, both the Lawrence and Andover school committees must negotiate and approve the Collaborative School.

The Planning Committee says they need this information to write the final feasibility report for the Collaborative School. After the report is written, the Planning Committee intends to review and discuss it in the communities. Then, they say it will be possible to conduct an assessment of parental and teacher interest in the Collaborative School.

"Since the legislation and the agreement are still being discussed, and the final report, discussion and interest assessment are to follow, the Planning Committee feels that an informed decision on the Collaborative School can not be made at this time..." Neal said in his statement. "We recommend that the Andover Town Meeting article on the Collaborative School be withdrawn at this time."

O'Neill Receives Award

Eric O'Neill, president of New England Foundation Co., Andover, was among the 48 persons honored at the 1988 Man of the Year Award Dinner February 17 at the Plaza Hotel in New York City. ENR, McGraw-Hill's construction weekly sponsors the dinner.

O'Neill is being recognized for developing a system that eased the foundation construction of Boston office building with difficult soil conditions. Working in joint venture with ICOS Corp. of America, New York City, O'Neill developed a system that allowed caissons up to 69 feet deep to be belled under slurry.

Construction's Man of the Year was James W. Poirot, chairman of CH2M Hill Companies Ltd., a Denver-based design organization. He was cited for his leadership in development of a manual intended to improve quality in construction.

A guided walking tour of the historic Abbot campus will take place Saturday, March 4, at 12 noon. Tour guides will be Christopher Shaw, assistant to the headmaster and director of public information at Phillips Academy, and Elaine Finbury, historic preservationist and developer.

Since the preservation of Draper Hall (1890), McKeen Hall (1904) and Abbot Hall (1829) and the renovation of Draper as apartments depends on approval at town meeting of an extension of an existing zoning bylaw, the community is invited to tour the buildings and grounds of the former Abbot Academy which is within the Academy Hill National Register Historic District. Interested persons are asked to meet at the Merrill gateway on School Street.

Chandler Road Bridge Closed For Repairs

The Chandler Road bridge over Route 93 was closed Monday after a routine inspection revealed a crack in one of its beams. The bridge will be closed

Preliminary results of the recent questionnaire sent to all secondary school parents will be discussed on Wednesday, March 9, on the third floor of the School Administration Building at 7:30 p.m. School Committee candidates have been invited for an informal question/answer session to begin at 8 p.m.

Town Meeting Registration Deadline

Andover residents will be able to register for the April 4 Town Meeting at an all-day session this Saturday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the Town Clerk's office in Town Hall.

The clerk's office will also be open extended hours from 8:30 a.m. to 10 p.m. on Tuesday, March 8, the final day that residents can register for Town Meeting. Presidential primary voting will take place April 8.

LEADERSHIP FOR ANDOVER'S FUTURE CHALLENGES AND OPPORTUNITIES

THE POSITION OF LAWRENCE S. SPIEGEL, CANDIDATE FOR SELECTMAN, ON IMPORTANT ISSUES FACING ANDOVER RESIDENTS AND THEIR FUTURE.

REGIONAL INFLUENCES ON OUR TOWN

As Andover elections and Town Meetings approach each year, most of us begin to think about problems we see within the Town. Traffic and parking, the school budget and educational proposals, and specific difficulties in individual neighborhoods are typical of the situations we often feel are somehow being handled poorly. Frustration can be very real because the problems and their acuteness are very real and ultimately important to everyone.

As candidate for Selectman, I feel that it is important that I share my views and positions on all issues of current concern before the elections on March 28th.

My subject in this column is regional trends that could profoundly affect our Town's future. I also will show how I would deal with these external factors that I feel could develop into nightmares without awareness and strong leadership by the Selectmen.

What kind of regional situations am I talking about? They range from the chronic unpleasantness of Merrimack Valley traffic that drives Ballardvale and West Andover residents crazy to the dramatic diversion of the Merrimack River into Metro Boston because the feed from Quabbin and its distribution lose unbelievable millions of gallons of water daily.

Andover traffic. It could get worse. The traffic counts I see as Commissioner of the Merrimack Valley Planning Commission are becoming astronomical. The region is still growing with more jobs, more vehicles per household and traffic that results from heavy southern N.H. residential and industrial growth. Andover has to deal with all of this plus the general North-South and East-West traffic on I-495, I-93, Rte 125, Rte 133 and good old Main Street.

What does the future hold? I feel that monstrous Boston construction of a depressed Central Artery, third harbor tunnel, new interchange at the Boston end of I-93 and frantic private skyscraper construction will make Boston driving and parking almost impossible until somewhere around the year 2000. Imagine the difficulties our commuters will face.

LAWRENCE S. SPIEGEL
Candidate for Selectman

Twenty years of recognized community contribution with experience and skills necessary to provide independent leadership for Andover's future.

Presently

Chairman, Municipal Building Re-Use Committee;
Chairman, Development and Industrial Commission;
Chairman, Industrial Development Financing Authority;
Commissioner, Merrimack Valley Planning Commission

Previously

Chairman, Andover Growth Policy Committee (1973);
Chairman, Master Plan Task Force on Development;
Awarded, Andover Chamber of Commerce Community Service Award (1978)

Personal

Dr. Spiegel is President of Spiegel International, an Andover-based international food and resource development technical consulting organization.
He lives with his wife Mary and two young children at 76 Holt Road.

Also recognize that both Logan Airport and the Merrimack Valley are both on the north side of Boston. Geography will result in a bold wave of development toward the north as businesses begin to leave Boston, taking employers with them, to settle in the Merrimack Valley.

What will I do as Selectman to control and minimize the impact of dramatic regional situations on Andover?

The first thing would be to identify and assess all of the current and potential area trends that adversely could effect our Town. A master list of problems could be drawn from state and regional sources using our State House representatives to open agency doors for practical information. Town department heads would be instructed to inform the Selectmen of any trends or action they feel could impact Andover resources and the Board of Selectmen would be encouraged to review and contribute to this master list and to insure that it is being maintained in current status.

Activity requiring immediate action would be given immediate attention. All town government, neighborhood and citizen groups must be mobilized to avert, control or at least minimize potential threats to our quality of life.

I would rather lead the fight to stop Merrimack River diversion while the project is on the drawing boards than lead a charge against bulldozers.

Similarly, I would want to insure that the current discouragement of aircraft activity at Logan Airport does not result in obnoxious air and vehicle traffic at the Lawrence Airport. Fortunately, I have studied the expansion plans for the Lawrence facility and am pleased that runway lengthening is now not included. But plans can change. Again, I would rather argue Andover's case against excessive jet aircraft flights, which could create noise pollution and traffic unpleasantness, during the planning stages than have to lead a midnight charge against cargo planes on a runway in my bathrobe.

Collecting regional information for potential Andover impact and recognizing and undertaking the immediate leadership necessary to address these issues head-on is the way I, as a Selectman, would act.

Armchair Tour Of Andovers On Sunday

By Virginia Lopez Begg

An armchair tour of historic Andover and North Andover will take place at the Andover Historical Society's Amos Blanchard House on Sunday, March 6, from 2 p.m. to 4 p.m. The slide-tape presentation, part of the society's First Sunday Series, features some of the two towns most historic buildings and places. The program is open to the public. There is a small admission fee for non-members.

Originally founded as one town in 1646, Andover and North Andover contain many interesting old homes, churches, schools and cemeteries. More than 100 slides take viewers back to colonial days, through the revolution and up to the Civil War. Some of the houses shown include the 17th-century Parson Barnard dwelling, the Abbot Tavern where George Washington dined and the Rose Cottage from whose grounds Lafayette addressed an enthralled throng in 1825. The Main Street, Andover, houses where Harriet Beecher Stowe lived and where "America" was written are also pictured.

As they do today, churches played an important role in the life of early Andover. While the oldest churches were lost to fire or replaced as the congregation's needs changed, both towns can boast a number of historic church buildings. These include the classic New England white-spined North Parish (Unitarian) in North Andover, dating to 1836, and Andover's Free Church, founded in 1846 by local residents deeply opposed to slavery.

Across the United States, the name Andover is usually connected with education. Slides of Phillips Academy and Abbot Academy will be shown along with several of the Andover Theological Seminary which trained the final generation of Puritan ministers and sent them to preach in every corner of the world.

Historical burial grounds dating from 1660, 1710 and 1810 will be shown. These burial grounds tell the life stories of the people who built Andover and North Andover in the towns' first 150 years.

The Andover Historical Society presents this slide-tape program to introduce residents to the historic area in which they live so they can appreciate the storied structures that are all around them. The slides were donated by members and the arrangement, music and script were created by George Glennie and Donald Hayes, Jr.

For Those Of Us Who Are Older

By Dorothy M. Winn

The big band sounds of Glen Miller and the Dorsey brothers will join Chet Harnden at the senior center on Monday, March 7, from 1 p.m. to 3 p.m. as the monthly dance parties resume. Enjoy music with two dance floors, one for line dancing and one for ballroom dancing. Admission is $1.50 for Andover residents age 60 and older and $2 for all others. Refreshments will be served.

Tickets are selling fast for the annual Council on Aging St. Patrick's Day Party Thursday, March 17. The $2.50 cost includes a corned beef dinner, complete with Irish soda bread, music by Jim Forzeese and his band and door prizes. Get your tickets today as space is limited.

Cheese distribution for all residents who preregistered during February will take place Monday, March 21, from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Volunteers are needed to bake for our March 21 bake sale. Cakes, pies, breads, muffins, cookies and bars are always popular. Donations can be dropped off at the senior center any time after 8:30 a.m. on March 21.

Open enrollment for Medex supplemental health insurance and the Baystate Health Care HMO for seniors continues through March 31. These two major health plans for seniors are not expected to open enrollment again until 1989. If you have questions on insurance coverage or need application forms, call the Council on Aging at 470-3830.

Representative Susan Tucker will hold office hours at the senior center on Monday, March 21, from 10 a.m. to 12 noon. Don't miss this opportunity to discuss pending legislation with your state representative.

You will have a chance to hear the candidates for Selectman, School Committee, Housing Authority and Moderator express their views and answer questions on Thursday, March 24, at 1 p.m. at the annual candidates' coffee sponsored by the Council on Aging at the senior center.

"Joseph and the Amazing Technicolor Dreamcoat" is based on the Biblical story of Joseph, son of Jacob, who was sold by his brothers into slavery.

BABY TALK

by Jack Resnick

Although many people regard it otherwise, toilet training needn't be a big deal. Like other aspects of child-rearing, training isn't a competition, and years from now, it'll make little difference that you had to launder diapers for six months more than the parents next door. Patience on your part is as important to the baby's toilet training as bladder control. There's no set schedule for toilet training. Most parents expect to begin when their youngster is about 18 months of age, but the child, not the calendar, tells you when the time is right. Nothing you do or say will cause your child to do what he or she doesn't want to.

Choose a simple IRA now, and save the hard decisions for later.

Investing for retirement should be easy, profitable, and flexible. And that's why you should look into the new 3-year IRA from Wakefield Savings Bank.

Once you've gotten started, you can add to it whenever you like. You can even consolidate other IRA's into it. (We'll be happy to transfer IRA's from other institutions into it for you.) And the interest it pays will always be 1/4% over the 3-year U.S. Treasury rate, adjusted each month. That way, no matter what happens to interest rates, you'll always be earning a competitive yield.

So make planning for retirement as simple as it can be with a 3-year variable rate IRA from Wakefield Savings Bank. It's the kind of investment that could leave you in an enviable position.

Town Meeting Action Could Assist Recycling

By Virginia Cole

The permissive legislations, which will be in the Town Warrant, will allow, if passed, the selectmen to decide upon mandatory recycling of any part of the waste stream which in their judgment can be disposed of in a more economical manner.

The provision will also make the Town of Andover eligible for grants from the Solid Waste Bill for help in any mandatory program. Therefore, two ways to save money: money from the state to help the program and more money coming to the town when mandatory recycling ups the tonnages collected.

Andover Recycling hopes newspaper recycling will be declared mandatory very soon. We already have a program in place, a collector hired and a market available. We are anxious for a permanent glass collection bin to be established and then glass, the heaviest part of trash, could be declared mandatory. Those of us who have missed the old dump as a gathering place and a source of finding political support would again have a place to go on Saturday a.m. or any other time of the day or week. Do your civic duty, meet your friends and save money, all at the same time.

Composting is the next project. Perhaps this word is scaring some people away from this process. I see the first step as a collection place for leaves, brush and grass clippings provided by the town. If biodegradable bags were used, they could just be dumped by each homeowner. The second phase could be a resurrection of the old vacuum or a new one, that picked up leaves from the streets.

The many forms of more scientific composting will be explained as we go forward with this project. Spring raking is coming, so think about another place for your lawn wastes, not the incinerator at $63 per ton.

In the last three months, you saved the town $3,145.60 by recycling.

Self-Awareness Workshops

The Department of Community Services is offering two self-awareness workshops on Saturday, March 12, at Andover High School: Experiments in Spirituality from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. and Seeing with the Mind's Eye—Exploring Consciousness from 10 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Astrologer and metaphysician Dorothy Oja brings a wealth of experience to the Experiments in Spirituality workshop. The day includes meditative and relaxation states for contacting your spiritual guides.

Oja, president of the New Hampshire Astrological Association, writes, lectures and teaches. She brings with her certification and neuro-linguistic programming, a therapeutic tool for counseling, eight years of study and practice in hypnotherapy, previous board member of Mass. Institute of Research and Clinical Hypnotists and a life-long study of metaphysical principals including TM. Her practice is called Mindworks, which includes complete astrological services, metaphysical services, tarot, palmistry, post recall sessions, intuitive counseling and individualized relaxation tapes. She feels that class participants will gain a "deeper perspective on the life process. In these times of uncertainty the strong spiritual understanding will sustain you during any life challenge."

Ilse Schenk's seminar, Seeing with the Mind's Eye—Exploring Consciousness, includes the dynamics of breath, focusing exercises and relaxation techniques, visualization practice and body/mind awareness. Specially created audiovisual media provide a rich background for working with sound and imagery. Exercises are designed to offer participants a dynamic experience in self-development and help them to integrate the material into their personal and professional lives. Schenk, artist, film maker and consultant in visual communication, has been teaching and working with aspects of visual perception and expression for more than 25 years. Her lifetime study of personal growth and development has included in-depth work with psycho-synthesis, autogenic training, various disciplines leading to body-mind integration and extensive practice in mental imagery.

Registration is being accepted at the Department of Community Services, Town Offices, Bartlet Street, Andover, Monday through Friday from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

Andover residents who have been named to the Dean's List at Bentley College, Waltham, for the first semester include: Jennifer C. Patten, a sophomore; Jeffrey J. Wolnik, a senior majoring in accounting; Cheryl M. Lasota, a senior majoring in marketing.

Andover Doctor Helps Man Regain Sight

It wasn't long ago that things couldn't have looked blacker for George Muise, both literally and figuratively. His wife, whom he had nursed throughout her long illness, had just died in California. He'd begun the long trek back east to Massachusetts to be near family and friends. But he got only as far as the Arizona desert before suddenly losing his sight and almost his life.

"The last thing I remember seeing on the highway is the sun coming up between two huge rock spires. Then everything went black. I pulled over to what I thought was the side of the road. I found out later that my front bumper stopped against a sign that read '7,000-foot drop.'" Muise recalls. "Thank God a state trooper eventually came along and found me."

The trooper drove him to the Arizona Kweipai Indian Reservation, the closest settlement. For the next two weeks, until a friend could take him home, Muise lived under the care of a motel owner, totally blind.

"I was sure I'd never ever see again," he says.

But even though he suffered a sudden, dramatic tumble into total blindness, Muise had actually been on a downhill course toward sightlessness most of his 65 years. When he lost his vision on the highway, it was actually only his left eye that was affected. His other eye had been blind for 55 years.

A thick cataract, perhaps the result of an injury to his eye from a childhood scuffle, together with a "lazy eye" (amblyopia), had robbed Muise of vision in his right eye. A cataract is a clouding of the eye's lens, which blocks out vision.

The fear of total blindness actually first struck Muise nine years ago

New hope for Muise's eye, blind for so many years, arose when he read a recent story in the local paper about new advances in cataract procedures. Over the years Muise had consulted more than 30 physicians. He had been convinced that the double whammy of cataract and amblyopia had dealt his right eye a death blow.

Doctors said there was no hope for George Muise's eye until Dr. Wilson Horsley of Andover restored an unexpected, nearly perfect vision to an eye that had been blind since childhood when his good eye also developed a cataract. Fortunately, surgery was able to restore his sight. His sudden vision loss on the highway was due to a detached retina, a condition that was treated at a VA hospital. Sight eventually returned to his good eye.

New hope for his other eye, blind for so many years, arose when he read a recent story in the local paper about new advances in cataract procedures.

Over the years Muise had consulted more than 30 physicians. He had been convinced that the double whammy of cataract and amblyopia had dealt his right eye a death blow.

"He came in and matter-of-factly reported that his right eye was blind and nothing could be done about it," comments Dr. Wilson Horsley, an ophthalmologist who lives on Evergreen Lane in Andover.

"But after examining him, I realized the eye could perceive light and form. I felt sure we could improve his condition, but I didn't think we could return more than his infantile vision. Many well-qualified people had said we were dealing with a lazy eye, so I was very cautious," said

Horsley, who is chief of ophthalmology at New England Memorial Hospital in Stoneham and who runs an eye clinic in the same town.

Normally Horsley uses a technique known as interferometry. It helps doctors make extremely accurate predictions of how well a patient will see after surgery. He shines a "laser-like" light into the eye. The light pierces through the cataract and shines on the retina. The doctor can see how well the retina is working and judge how much vision will be restored after the cataract is removed.

The trouble was, Muise's cataract was so thick that even this sophisticated diagnostic equipment made prediction impossible.

So neither Muise nor Horsley was prepared for what happened when the bandages were removed the day after surgery.

"Dr. Horsley asked if I could read anything on the eye card, and I immediately read one of the smallest lines. No one could believe it. A photographer who was there taking pictures said, 'It's a miracle.' The nurses in the room cried. Dr.

'Dr. Horsley asked if I could read anything on the eye card, and I immediately read one of the smallest lines. No one could believe it.'

Horsley put his arms around me and said, 'This makes me glad to be a doctor.' I said, 'I'm glad you're a doctor too,'" said Muise, who lives in Reading.

With glasses to correct for some distortion, his right eye should be close to perfect, according to Horsley. Considering his history and past diagnoses, no one could have predicted this remarkable vision recovery after 55 years, but Muise is thankful Horsley gave it a try.

"If you've never been blind, you can't understand what it's like. I still have a lot of things left to do in this life and I need my eyes to do them. Anything is possible now."

Science Team Heads For States

Students Test Skill In 20 Events

By Kristine Nims

The Andover High School science team will soon be on its way to the State Olympiad. This major all-day competition of 20 events will be held March 26 at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Two events are the "naked egg drop" — in which the students must build a structure that is able to catch a falling egg without breaking it — and a bridge-building contest using toothpicks.

The AHS team is one of 25 members of the North Shore Science League. Each team may have up to 15 members, and they hold practices Tuesday afternoons. Every second Tuesday the team competes against the other schools in chemistry, biology and physics. The team of sophomores, juniors and seniors is supervised by Dr. Edgar Johnson and Dr. Rita Petrella.

"Science team is good chance to have fun with science and to apply what you learn," a senior said. Andover High is now in fifth-place in the North Shore League.

The competitions are designed to test knowledge in specific subjects. For example, one event was on projectile motion, in which the participants were given a dart gun and had to figure out how much thrust it would provide a dart. They then had to predict how far the dart would go and how much it would drop to hit a target. In a biology event, students were shown 24 different slides of tissue and had to identify the type of tissue.

"It's fun," Johnson said, "but you have have to be confident in your abilities." For the third consecutive year, since the science team began, it is doing well and growing in numbers. Competitions are one of the main purposes, but as Johnson said, "The object is to give students the opportunity to meet other students like themselves."

AHS Musicians Take Awards

Andover High School musicians are sweeping state contests.

The jazz band won the Massachusetts Association of Jazz Educators Northeast District Division II championships Monday, Feb. 29 at Lexington High School, and the percussion ensemble attained honors in two recent performances.

The jazz band's win qualifies the members for the MASE state finals at Fitchburg State College Saturday, March 12, where they will compete against 11 other finalists from the four districts in the state. Of the nine bands that have qualified thus far, Andover has received the highest qualifying score from the judges.

The percussion ensemble competed in Andover on Valentine's Day, when they placed third out of four ensembles and on Sunday, Feb. 21, they took first place in a competition in Dover.

The Andover High marching band, after an undefeated season, held its awards banquet at the Andover Jade. Letters and year pins were presented all members with special pen sets given as a farewell to seniors.

Special awards included: Steve Devoir, most valuable player; Sue Boush, most enthusiastic; Greg Devoir, best player, high school; Ben Medler, best player, junior high; Erika Wood, best marcher, high school; Matt Zippetto, most improved high school; most improved, junior high school, Jeff Schaake; Chris Broudy, best rookie, high school; Joey McLean, best rookie, junior high.

Finally, plaques were given to all instructors in thanks for their direction and dedication to the band. Recipients were Marc Keroack, director; Mark Sanchez, assistant director; Bob Mulvanity, marching instructor; Brian Dollard, assistant marching instructor; Rich Rigolini, color guard instructor; Pete Furnari, percussion instructor; Dana Atwood, assistant percussion instructor and Joe McFarland, marching instructor.

The first presidential news conference to be televised was held by President Eisenhower on January 19, 1955.

ANDOVER TOWNSMAN

West Students Visit Canada

By Jacques Cartier

Students from grades 7-9 left the West Junior High School parking lot on Sunday, Feb. 14, for a four-day bus trip to Quebec City and Montreal. Chaperoned by Mr. and Mrs. Taylor, Miss Humlak, Mr. Darrin and Mr. Gangi, the group arrived at the Auberge des Govenours Hotel at mid-afternoon. After relaxing in the heated pool, the group departed for dinner and an evening of roller skating at Le Roulatheque.

The group took a walking tour of the "old city" of Quebec after an "all-you-can-eat" breakfast buffet at the hotel. Individual "teams" visited the Place Royale, Chateau Frontenac, a sound/light show at the Musee du Fort and explored the shops of the old city. The day ended with a 40-minute, horse-drawn carriage ride through the city. After dinner at La Vieille Maison du Spaghetti, the group traveled to the countryside to Les Village des Sportes complex for an evening of inner tube sliding and ice skating. The winning inner tube team of "Crash" Darrin, "Killer" Humlak, "Fearless" (Mrs.) Taylor, "Heartless" Gangi and "Caboose" Taylor established a new Canadian distance record on the most dangerous of all the hills outside Quebec.

Day three started with a breakfast buffet. After a guided tour of L'Assemblee Nationale (Provincial Parliament), the group went to the massive shopping complex in Ste. Foye for shopping and lunch. The group left for Montreal in the early afternoon. Their arrival at the Hotel Lord Berri gave everyone a chance to "freshen up" and prepare for the evening's attractions. Entertainment included a sleigh ride, tour of a traditional French-Canadian maple syrup mill and bakery, an "all-you-can-eat" Quebecois dinner and traditional music and dancing at La Succrerie de la Montagne. The evening featured individual and duet singing acts by members of the group. The highlight of the evening was the "classic" version of "Blue Moon" sung by the chaperones: "Smokey" Taylor lead vocal with backup vocals and dancing by "Buddy" Darrin, "Ritchie" Gangi and "Shelly" Humlak.

The last day in the Quebec Province started with breakfast in the hotel and a bus tour of the city of Montreal. The group had time for shopping and lunch in Ville Marie, an underground shopping mall in the heart of the city, after touring the beautiful Notre Dame Cathedral. Early afternoon was highlighted by a guided tour of Olympic Park, the site of the 1976 summer Olympics. After one last stop for shopping and changing Canadian money back to U.S. currency, the group left for the United States. The final event of the tour was a pizza party at Papa Gino's in West Lebanon, N.H., where the team competition winner was announced by Commissioner Darrin: "Team Humlak" came in first; "Team Gangi" second; "Team Taylor" third. Immediately after the awarding of the prize, "Team Gangi" and "Team Taylor" filed official protests with the commissioner. The group arrived in Andover around 11 p.m. with pleasant memories of their trip to the French Canadian province.

Individual "teams" visited the Place Royale, Chateau Frontenac, a sound/light show at the Musee du Fort and explored the shops of the old city. The day ended with a 40-minute, horse-drawn carriage ride through the city. After dinner at La Vieille Maison du Spaghetti, the group traveled to the countryside.

Doherty Students Keep Busy

Back from February vacation, students at Doherty Junior High School have a full schedule of activities ahead of them. A dance, a district concert and a special mime production by the Kitchen Sink mime troupe are a few of the activities slated for the coming weeks.

Doherty students will perform at the Northeast Junior District Concert on Saturday, March 19. Choral members include Ami Bakshi, Elisa Derby, Tanya Tamarkin, Amy Smith, Jennifer Lewis, Helena Padellaro, Marcus Deloach and Michael Bor. David Lewin and Joshua Payne were selected for the district band and Jin Woo Joo was chosen for the district orchestra. To be able to participate in the district concert, Doherty competed against junior high school students from throughout northeastern Massachusetts. Congratulations to these outstanding musicians.

Members of Doherty's Academic Bowl team traveled to the Bruce School in Lawrence last week for their competition. Doherty hosted the regional competition for the Math Counts program.

Students had a chance to celebrate Valentine's Day all over again last Friday as Doherty held its belated holiday dance. A repeat of last year's popular "Heart Game" highlighted the seventh-graders' afternoon dance and eight and ninth-graders' evening dance.

Student Council members voted to make a donation to the USA '88 Olympics. With everyone caught up in "Olympic fever," the council's action is a concrete demonstration of support for American athletes in Canada and South Korea.

Selected seventh and eighth graders participated in the annual New England Math League Competition last month. Achieving top scores in grade eight were Eric Behling, Lorian Buehler, Greg Debeer, Rebecca Malakoff, Matt Radack, Alaina Schroeder and Allen Soong. Seventh grader Kevin Foltz completed his test without one error, a new record for Doherty's grade seven. Other seventh-grade high scorers include Glen Aeder, Yoonhee Ahn, Holly Grabowski, Candice Mahala, Kara O'Handley and Mike Tung. Scores will be compared against more than 5,000 others across New England with the final results due in May.

Ninth graders enjoyed their recent ice fishing expedition to Foster's Pond. Ecology students from House B caught a number of fish in addition to conducting a series of scientific experiments. The "catch of the day" is now residing in the school's aquariums in Room 202. Students came prepared for the day on the ice with tents, blankets, food, cocoa and a camp fire to keep them warm.

The Parent Advisory Councils of Doherty and West Junior High Schools will present a symposium entitled "Helping Adolescents Make Good Life Decisions" on Wednesday, March 9, at West Junior High Auditorium at 7:30 p.m. Nancy Nicolazzo will be the guest speaker. Parents of fifth and sixth graders are also invited to attend this important meeting.

Parents of ninth graders will gather at the Collins Center at Andover High School for a special Curriculum Information Night on March 10 at 7:30 p.m. The program will feature a description of course offerings and time for small group discussion and questions. Eighth-grade parents attended a similar meeting last week.

Any parents interested in joining a parent support group to discuss how to communicate with teens can attend an eight-week program at Doherty. The group will meet on Mondays from 7:30 p.m. to 9 p.m. For more information, contact Norma Roberts in the guidance office.

The Doherty PAC will hold its next meeting Thursday, April 14, at 7:30 p.m. in the Media Center. All Doherty parents are invited to attend PAC sessions.

Doherty Principal Dr. Richard McGrail has announced that a group of Doherty teachers and administrators are busy planning ceremonies and social events for the eighth graders who will graduate in June. Like their ninth-grade counterparts, the eighth graders will have a full agenda of memorable year-end activities.

Meeting

The Merrimack Valley Region of the Mass Head Injury Association will hold their support group for head-injured, family and friends on Wednesday, March 9, from 6:30 p.m. to 8:30 p.m. at the Billerica Regional Medical Center, 76 Treble Cove Road, Billerica. The topic will be sharing valuable resources with information welcome on camping, day programs, social activities and any other types of activities. Anyone interested can attend.

ASK Addresses Doherty Parents

The Parent Advisory Council of Doherty Junior High School met last month for a meeting which combined a discussion of regular business with an informative presentation by ASK (Assistance, Support, Knowledge), a program in the Andover schools which deals with substance abuse. PAC President Kathy Lane introduced the three student representatives from the high school and junior high school ASK teams. Matt Rubenstein, Ryan Kelley and Jeff Uchin presented some alarming statistics on drug and alcohol abuse. The students conducted a group-participation experiment to demonstrate the widespread problems of substance abuse, which left PAC members impressed.

As the representatives pointed out, the ASK teams consist of

An Old Tool Learns New Tricks

Editor's Note: This is the eighth article in a series of articles concerning Andover's computer plan written by Kenneth Kwajewski, computer education director for Andover's public schools.

There is a greater concern today in America that educational programs should stress problem solving and critical thinking skills. Educators realize that it is now more important to be able to use information rather than memorize it and, therefore, adjustments have been made in many curriculums. These adjustments have led to a greater number of activities where students use tools to help them solve relevant problems. An old tool that is doing new tricks in the science lab is the Apple IIe computer. The computer is being used as a tool for both teachers and students to measure, record, analyze and display data for scientific experiments. The computer is playing an active role in science education by executing various types of software programs that can teach, drill, reinforce and simulate experiments that never were possible at the public school level. More importantly, the computer is being used to interact with probeware. The term probeware refers to interface devices that are physically connected to the computer to measure sound, light, temperature, motion and other physical and chemical properties. The computer is being found in the science lab right next to the Bunsen burner and graduated cylinder as a tool for scientific research. The versatility of this machine has enabled it to be used as an important tool in science education.

Last year, the science curriculum for grades one through 12 was revised by the science curriculum committee in order to integrate an expanded use of current technologies. Administrators and teachers made recommendations about the hardware and software that would be needed to update this curriculum. This year, monies from the computer plan have allowed for various materials to be purchased. Computers, educational software, probeware and videodisk materials have been purchased for grades 1-12 in order to provide students and teachers with more effective tools. Our system has made excellent choices concerning the use of the computer as a tool for science education. This article will describe what is taking place at the elementary, middle and high school levels.

The SKIIS science curriculum is a comprehensive science program that has been used throughout the elementary schools in grade one through six. It has both life and physical science strands that are reinforced and supplemented students and function within the schools to provide prevention curriculum, support services and intervention when needed. ASK will hold the popular "Club Soda" on Saturday, March 5, at 8 p.m. at the Andover Country Club. Entertainment includes a program of stand-up comedy as well as a dance. The event is open to students in grades 9-12 and tickets are available from any ASK member or at the door.

ASK will sponsor a special prevention month in May with activities ranging from bicycle rodeos to a Walk for Hunger. In addition, the ASK team has distributed pocket-size information cards to students and has gotten "tremendous response" from teens with its chip display, the same group-participation exercise which PAC members tried.

Ruby Easton, chairman of Andover High School's counseling department, addressed the PAC, noting that the work of the ASK teams "has made some inroads on the problems." Doherty Housemasters Kathy Blain and David Clark agreed on the importance of discussing the issues of substance abuse.

Activities chairman Irene Blank discussed plans for Teacher Appreciation Day, Wednesday, March 9. A special luncheon will be served to honor the faculty at Doherty for their hard work and dedication.

'An exciting new course at the high school this year is being team-taught by Ted Johnson, computer information department head, and Marge Dugal, mathematics teacher. This course combines the disciplines of computers, chemistry and Algebra II. Students receive three periods of instruction where these subjects are integrated and activities are planned by both teachers.

THE TOWNSMAN, MARCH 3, 1988

Concert Features Beethoven, Brahms

The music department of Phillips Academy will present a faculty chamber music recital Sunday, March 6, at 3 p.m. in the Timken Recital Room at Graves Hall. The program will feature the Beethoven "Sonata No. 7 for Violin and Piano in c minor," opus 2 and the Brahms "Clarinet Trio," the first and third movements. Performers are Gerald Itzkoff, violin; William Thomas, cello; Peter Warsaw, piano; and Eric Thomas, clarinet.

Itzkoff, a graduate of the University of Massachusetts at Amherst, attended Manhattan School of Music. He became soloist and concertmaster of the Heidelberg Chamber Orchestra in West Germany and toured extensively with them, completing several world tours. He is currently principal second violinist of the New Hampshire Symphony, a frequent performer of chamber music and solo recitals in the Boston area and an instructor of violin at Phillips Academy.

Thomas, a graduate of New England conservatory of Music and winner of the Concert Artists Guild Award for outstanding chamber music performers, also teaches clarinet and saxophone at Phillips Exeter and Brown University.

There are four movements of "Sonata No. 7 for Violin and Piano in c minor."

Brahms discovered his last love in the clarinet and composed his "Clarinet Quintet" and "Clarinet Trio" in a very short time. Brahms exploited with astonishing assurance the colorful richness of registers and the characteristic tonal beauty of the clarinet, at times using the clarinet and cello as flowing duo partners.

The concert is free.

Handel Concert At Academy

The music department of Phillips Academy will present the Cantata Choir, Academy Chamber Orchestra and Fidelio Society in concert on Friday, March 4, at 8 p.m. in Cochran Chapel on the academy campus.

The program will include Handel's "Israel in Egypt," performed by the Academy Cantata Choir and Chamber Orchestra, under the direction of William Thomas. George Frideric Handel began this work on October 1, 1738, and was finished in a month. It is almost certain that he chose the words from the Bible and Prayer Book versions of the Psalms, combined with phrases assembled from the Book of Exodus.

Thomas, chairman of the music department, is a graduate of Oberlin Conservatory and Penn State University. Beda Polanco, soprano, is the vocal instructor at Phillips and performs regularly with the Boston Opera Company. She has performed as soloist here and abroad in productions of "La Boheme," "Tosca," Mozart's "Requiem," Honegger's "King David" and Brahms' "A German Requiem." Gregory Jackson, a graduate of Adelphi University, Garden City, L.I., is a master's degree candidate at the University of Lowell. He has created the role of Don Ottavio in "Don Giovanni" and Frederick in "Pirates of Penzance." He sings regularly at St. John Baptist Church in Woburn. Suzanne Dimmock, a graduate of University of New Hampshire and University of Maryland, holds a master's in music performance. She has performed as soloist in several operas, including "Magic Flute," "Marriage of Figaro" and "Zaide." Dimmock sings regularly on a cable program featuring sacred and gospel music. Terry Morgan, a graduate of Boston University, SFA, is an administrative assistant in the music department. She sings regularly at Christ church, Andover, and performs throughout New England with Earl L. Miller, organist, presenting programs of Victorian and Edwardian music. Dr. Santo Cataudella has sung widely throughout the East and in this area with Chorus Pro Musica, Handel and Haydn Society, Boston Philharmonic, Merrimack Valley Philharmonic and Phillips Academy music ensembles. He has performed as soloist in the Mozart "Great Mass in c minor," the Bach "St. John Passion" and Gershwin's "Porgy and Bess."

The Fidelio Society, under the direction of Susan Lloyd, will perform three madrigals: "The Harvester's Song" by Jean Berger, "La Nuit Froide et Sombre" by Orlandus Lassus and "Si, chio vorrei morire" by Claudio Monteverdi.

The question mark (?) comes from the first and last letters of the Latin word for question: quastio.

Top Mime at Collins Center

Marcel Marceau

Marcel Marceau, universally acclaimed as the greatest living pantomimist, will appear at the J. Everett Collins Center for the Performing Arts, Shawsheen Road, Andover, on Friday, March 4, at 8 p.m.

Affectionately called the "wordless wonder" and the "genius of gesture," he has thrilled audiences throughout the world with his interpretations of the comic and tragic aspects of daily existence.

His silent exercises, which include such classic works as "The Cage," "Walking Against the Wind," "The Mask Maker" and "In the Park" and satires on everything from sculptors to matadors, have been described as works of genius. Of his summation of the ages of man in the famous "Youth, Maturity, Old Age and Death," one critic said that "he accomplished in less than two minutes what most novelists cannot do in volumes.

Marceau created Bip, the Clown in 1947 who, in his striped pullover and battered, beflowered opera hat, has become his alter-ego, even as Chaplin's Little Tramp became that star's personality. Bip's misadventures with everything from butterflies to lions, on ships and trains, in dance halls or restaurants, are limitless.

Marceau's first television performance as a star performer on the Max Liebman "Show of Shows" won him the television industry's coveted Emmy Award.

Profiles in Caring

Nursing at

Lawrence General Hospital

Joan Hardy, R.N.

"It seems to have been my destiny to become a nurse," says Joan Hardy, R.N. "Since I was 10 years old, I wanted to be a nurse, like the story had already been written for me. Being a nurse and a mother are the two most important things in my life."

Born in Maine, Joan spent most of her childhood in Troy, NY, and is a graduate of Newburyport (MA) High School and the Sacred Heart School of Nursing, Manchester, NH. She started working at Lawrence General in 1973.

"I've had opportunities to leave nursing, but I've remained a nurse because I love what I'm doing," says Joan.

Joan and her husband, Brian, live in Amesbury with their two daughters; Julie, 11, and Anne Frances, 7. Now a member of the Intensive Care Unit staff, Joan was chosen last May as the outstanding nurse on the Russell-4 surgical nursing unit.

This is the eleventh in a series of articles featuring Lawrence General Hospital nurses who have been selected by their peers as outstanding in their profession.

THE SOCIAL SIDE

THE TOWNSMAN, MARCH 3, 1988

More than 100 people went to the Andover Historical Society's President's Day Gala, which the society revived to honor George Washington and Abraham Lincoln, Saturday, Feb. 27 at the Lanam Club.

Guests, at left, were treated to a champagne buffet reception and the chance to meet the society's new director, above, Charlotte Smith, who will officially start her job March 10.

Friends and members of the Historical Society attended the gala, which honored two famous presidents. George Washington visited Andover in almost 200 years ago — in November 1789. He spent the night at the Deacon Isaac Abbott Tavern. The next day, he reviewed the town's militia.

Chandler Road Overpass Closed

The Chandler Road overpass on the 93 Highway in Andover was closed Monday when a routine inspection discovered cracks in a support beam.

The bridge could be closed "a week or it could be closed for a year," Robert McQuade, head of the Andover department of public works said he was told by the state.

The Boston office of the state department of public works will send engineers this week to investigate the extent of the crack.

The level of damage will determine whether a major repair or just a patch job is needed, said Gerald Donnellan, district structure maintenance engineer for the state.

Donnellan emphasized that the overpass is in no danger of collapsing.

"Don't think that anything is coming down," he said. "It's perfectly safe at the moment."

The uncertainty lies in whether the bridge can support the weight of daily traffic said Donnellan.

The damage was discovered Monday afternoon by a bridge inspection team making a routine tour of area overpasses.

After concluding the cracks appeared to be spreading, engineer John Hayden contacted the local state public works office which authorized the closing.

The problem is not the length of the cracks, said Donnellan, the state's main worry is that the damage is located on a weld.

The overpass was constructed in the late 1950s or early 1960s, said Donnellan. These bridges were constructed with a number of weld points, he added.

No other bridges in the state have been found with similar damage, said Donnellan.

The state plans to drill a hole at the fissure's end, a preventative measure that Donnellan says often halts the progress of a crack.

The damage is on a beam located at the southbound lane of the 93 Highway.

THE TOWNSMAN, MARCH 3, 1988

Selectmen Decide Which Articles Get Nod

The Board of Selectmen lent their support Monday night to several town articles for the Town Meeting.

After assembling the final list of warrant articles, the selectmen went through each and voted on whether they would come out in favor, against or simply take no position by voting to hold the article.

Monday night's meeting was the deadline for the selectmen if they wanted their support listed in print at the town meeting.

The selectmen hold the option of being able to express support or opposition at the Town Meeting, which is scheduled for April 4-6, and if necessary, April 11.

Articles that received the selectmen's blessing included:

- Approval of extra money to cover recent hikes in town employee health insurance coverage.
- Downtown parking stickers for town employees.

- Money to support water treatment.
- Several land acquisition and land swap articles.
- A warrant that would institute non-criminal hearings for people who violate minor town laws.
- A change in the bylaws regarding the disposition of junk cars.
- A planning board article imposing new regulations on satellite dishes.
- An article that would implement mandatory recycling.
- An article that would authorize Equal Opportunity funds for the Greater Lawrence Vocational School.

Articles the selectmen were unsure of, or did not favor, were put on hold for discussion at the town meeting.

These articles included:

- The takeover of the empty post office building on Main Street in the downtown area. State and federal governments get first crack at the building, but if they pass it up, Town Manager Ken Mahony favors retaining ownership to control the next use of the land.

•A proposed quorum of 350 registered voters that would be needed before the start of any town meeting. The article would allow the quorum to fall below 350 voters while the meeting is in progress.

•New definitions of what constitutes a family day care business.

•New regulations dealing with home occupations.

•The creation of a mixed use development area in the Shawsheen Plaza area.

•New definitions and regulations regarding convenience stores.

•New regulations concerning industrial area business signs.

Board Endorses Parking Meters

The Board of Selectmen Monday, Feb. 22, voted to back a parking committee recommendation that the town install parking meters as a short-term solution to downtown parking woes.

After voting 5-0 to support the infusion of meters into the downtown shopping district, the selectmen inserted a town article for the April 8 Town Meeting calling for the hiring of extra personnel to enforce parking laws.

The downtown area and nearby municipal parking lots would be affected if voters OK the idea.

The first year budget would be between $130,000 and $170,000, although Chairman Gerald Silverman believes the lower figure will be presented at the Town Meeting. The money would come out of the reserve fund and a separate account would be set up until the funds are repaid.

Some estimates place yearly revenue from the meters at about $250,000.

Although some members of the committee, including chairman Chris Holmes were against spending the money necessary to install meters and hire extra parking enforcement officers, Holmes said the project would repay funds spent by the town almost immediately, calling it a quick return for a small outlay.

Asked by Silverman about whether the committee considered not putting meters on Main Street, Holmes said the idea was not feasible. Drivers would circle the block several times for a chance to find an unmetered parking spot, increasing traffic hazards and congestion, said Holmes.

Although Silverman said yesterday that people generally aren't happy with meters, "they aren't happy with not finding a parking spot either."

Metered parking, he said, will encourage drivers not to sit in one parking spot for long periods of time.

Along with the meters, the town would be providing 25 more parking spots near the Old Andover Village shopping area.

The selectman also discussed setting up a permanent, separate account to invest meter revenues into parking facilities. Town Manager Ken Mahony said that town policies have generally discouraged the practice, but he acknowledged that there no legal barriers existed.

Solutions for alleviating commuter parking congestion in the Shawsheen area will be scrutinized in the near future, said Silverman.

Martin Adds Name To Candidates

Edward L. Martin has announced his candidacy for the Board of Selectmen.

His chief goal is to preserve the integrity of the town and to maintain the quality of life we have come to enjoy in Andover. He is concerned about the future direction of the town, particularly that development not change the town's character. Martin feels that town government should provide for the changing needs of its citizens—the elderly who built Andover's reputation, the adults who support the town and the children who deserve the best education our town can provide. He supports the SHED Program, elderly services and improved recreational facilities.

Martin's belief in the importance of maintaining standards of excellence in the Andover schools necessitates his opposition to the collaborative school proposal. He feels that this proposal is ill-conceived and not feasible at this time. Martin is very concerned that this proposal, if passed at town meeting, would impact negatively on existing school programs and that Andover's sense of community would be compromised. He supports neighborhood schools and a school system which is not only autonomous but also accountable to the townspeople.

Martin believes that town government should reflect the needs and wishes of its citizens. The Town Manager, ultimately responsible for the town, must be directly accountable to the Board of Selectmen. They, in turn, must not only be accessible, but must actively seek citizen input.

Martin has longstanding ties to this area, having been born and raised in North Tewksbury. His great grandfather immigrated from Ireland and settled in West Andover on C.I. Hood's farm, which is currently St. Francis Seminary. His grandfather, the late Cornelius Desmond, was the former chairman of the Massachusetts House of Representatives Ways and Means Committee.

Edward L. Martin

Martin is a graduate of the University of Lowell and holds a bachelor of science degree in history. He attended Salem

State College of Continuing Education and Graduate School, receiving his teaching and counselling certifications. He also holds a master's degree in criminal justice.

Martin has been a police officer in the Town of Tewksbury since 1974, earning his current rank of Lieutenant in 1981. He serves as president of the Tewksbury Superior Police Officers Union.

Martin is a member of the Town Democratic Committee and has attended workshops sponsored by the State Democratic Committee.

He and his wife, Carol Anderson Martin, reside at 9 Knollcrest Drive with their two children.

A School In A School

By Julie M. Barry

It's "circle time" at Andover High School's nursery school program.

Thirteen youngsters gather around Jean Gilbert, coordinator of the program. One by one, the children present something for "show and tell." Stuffed rabbits, a wood airplane and a doll are a few of the items shown.

The high energy in the class provides the perfect opportunity to initiate the hokey pokey. High school students help Gilbert sing the famous chant.

Children who are enrolled in the nursery school at Andover High participate in these fun-filled activities.

With the exception of the coordinator, the program is staffed entirely by students. Thirty-seven high school students are taking the year-long course. Gilbert explained that the students spend the first half of the year in the classroom studying a wide range of child-related issues. Some topics are health and nutrition of children, personal relationships and a child's physical and emotional development.

This prepares them for the second half of the year — running the nursery school. Gilbert said the class involves "the study of the child, continuing with the laboratory — the operational nursery school."

The nursery school operates Tuesday through Thursday from 8:40 to 10:45 a.m. Children aged 2 through 5 years old are eligible to attend. Currently, there are 13 children in the program.

The ratio of high school students to children is very high. According to Gilbert, there are about 12 high school students in the nursery at all times. "The quality of time spent with the children is very high, and I have been very impressed with the students here, their attitudes and interest in young children," Gilbert said.

Gilbert said that "the nursery school is very functional." She says it's divided into four sections — an art and creative play area, an active play area, a role-playing area and an area for circle time. Students choose where they want to play, but circle time is a daily requirement. Gilbert says it's a time for storytelling and show and tell.

The nursery school not only benefits the young children but also the high school students. The students examine child development "starting before conception, starting with the relationship leading to the family," Gilbert said.

Personal changes throughout life and how it affects relationships is considered. Gilbert says she reviews different types of relationships. One point she makes is that "looking out for someone to spend life with is different than someone we're infatuated with," she said.

In addition to relationships, the class studies the child's growth in the first few years of life. Gilbert said one of the topics is "how children change life (of the parents), both in a positive and a negative way." She said "there's additional stresses, but on the other hand, there's huge, positive returns."

Gilbert says one of the major goals of the class is to teach the students how to understand the child, and through this, how we understand ourselves. "I want to make them think beyond 'Isn't this a cute child?' to think of the child as an individual," Gilbert said.

Senior Paula Giroux says she's learned that each child is different. "You can't expect everyone to be the same; everyone has distinct personalities," Giroux said.

The high school students say they've learned a lot. Senior Jacquie Lawton said she's "learned about first aid and how to treat them (children) when they're sick." She also says the class has given her more creative ideas to work with children.

"I'm here because I love kids, being and working with kids," senior Lara Connerty said. Both Lawton and Connerty agree the class will help them to be good mothers and to understand and deal with younger siblings.

Other students plan on pursuing a career in a child-related field and take the course to gain direct experience. Senior Dave Camasso says he wants to go into child psychology. "Hopefully, I'll get a taste of what it'll be like," Camasso said.

Registration is currently underway for the 10-week session beginning April 5. Registration forms are available at the high school switchboard. To date, there is no deadline for submitting the forms.

Caroline Berbarian and Kristen Boyce await their turns during show and tell.

The children in the program are selected on a lottery basis. The enrollment cost is $50. According to Gilbert, this money is used to purchase materials and supplies, such as furniture, toys and food.

OPINION

THE TOWNSMAN, MARCH 3, 1988

Understandable Delay

The school committee this week decided to postpone a vote on the Collaborative School until the fall, at which time the matter may be presented to a special town meeting.

While the controversial issue has aroused the general public in Andover, which could join with Lawrence on the collaborative school project, the decision to postpone the ultimate vote on the proposal seems advisable at this time.

There remain some unanswered questions concerning financing, the number of volunteers who would actually come from Andover to fill the 400-pupil quota for the school, being among them.

Surprisingly, Andover's annual town meeting is just around the corner, and certainly there is insufficient time to provide the ready answers to all the questions surrounding the proposal.

It was pleasing to see the reaction of the leaders of both the proponents and opponents of the issue agree that postponement was wise. Probably somewhat disappointed that the matter faces delay, they, too, realize that insufficient facts concerning the total proposal can only lead to improper or, possibly, unwise decisions.

As has been mentioned previously, the TOWNSMAN has been publishing letters on both sides of the issue from interested Andover residents, and will continue to do so. The Public Forum section of this newspaper is open to the residents and readers to express their opinion and we welcome their voice.

Now that the ultimate decision is to be delayed, it seems important to ask that those on either side of the issue keep in mind the importance of adhering to the merits or demerits of the Collaborative School proposal.

Too often lately, it seems, both in letters and public discussion of the matter, the facts get clouded through name-calling and accusations.

Frankly, the issue of whether Andover should be a part of the city-town collaborative school district should be based solely on the facts surrounding the proposal.

Accusatory tactics tend to draw attention from the issues, result in ill feeling and lead to decisions based on personal rather than factual observations.

The delay in voting on the matter should allow sufficient time to surmount such ills.

And, while indeed there may be some disappointment in putting off that decision until the fall, it is best to give sufficient time to gather all the facts necessary and maybe allow some cooling off among those whose strong beliefs may sometimes be obscured by personal feelings.

DOWN THE YEARS

100 Years Ago — February 1888

There is an article in the warrant for town meeting looking to the publication of a new map of Andover. Save the small maps in the County Atlases, no map of our town has been published since Walling's in 1852, before North Andover was set off. An expenditure of a few hundred dollars would give us a good map of the town with all the new streets, buildings, etc. and would ultimately cost little or nothing as the sale of copies would largely defray the outlay.

A man who observes and hears, but rarely speaks, brings word to us that Lawrence liquor dealers are determined to carry Andover this year if possible. They hope to find temperance people napping, but intend to have every friend of liquor at the polls with his ballot ready to vote "Yes." No doubt there is some danger they will succeed.

Joseph A. Dennison, formerly Andover reporter of Lawrence American has received an appointment on the staff of the Boston Globe.

We are happy to state that the Road Commissioners came and made quite an improvement on our roads last week.

Alfred Playdon has cut second crop ice from Pomp's Pond 16 inches thick.

A sudden, sharp, severe "snap" - mercury from zero to 8 degrees above in Andover.

The advance sale of tickets for "Joseph's Bondage" has been large and the few good seats left should not fail to be taken. Quite a delegation of Lowell people who have heard it before will attend a special train having been arranged for their accommodation.

75 Years Ago — February 1913

At the last meeting of the Registrars of Voters, fifteen new voters were registered, among them being seven women. This makes the total registration in both precincts as follows: 1470 males and 23 females.

In honor of his tenth birthday, Wm. Dalton, son of Mrs. M.E. Dalton, was given a surprise party on Monday night at which several of his school friends were present. The evening was spent very enjoyable in the playing of various competitive games and the time passed altogether too quickly for everyone.

The annual election of the town officials and the annual town meeting for the transportation of town business will take place next Monday, March 3. The polls will open in the lower town hall at 6 o'clock a.m. and may be closed at 2 o'clock.

The annual Lincoln spelling contest will take place in the town hall on Friday evening.

William Carrigan, the veteran catcher of the Boston Red Sox, spent Wednesday visiting friends in town.

Miss Mabel V. Harrigan, chief operator of the Andover telephone exchange, has returned from a convention of Chief Operators of the Central Division held in Manchester, N.H. About fifty delegates, representing as many cities and towns in the division, were present and discussed the subject "Toll Ineraturg Practice."

50 Years Ago — February 1938

A blizzard that had more force than anything else descended on the town early Monday morning and stayed until late in the evening. Low temperatures plus a biting snow-laden wind combined to make walking and motoring exceedingly difficult, and Main street on Monday night was almost deserted.

Punchard and Methuen won the first games in the basketball tourney at the Memorial gymnasium last night, Punchard by defeating Johnson 34-23.

During the twenty-three days that the Memorial Hall library was open in February, 8246 books were issued for home use. At Ballardvale, 678 were borrowed, making a total for the month of 8924 volumes, the largest monthly use in the history of the library. In 1938, the library has circulated 17,759 books, an increase of 3469 over January and February in 1937.

The town election on Monday is expected to attract a heavy vote, despite the fact that for the first time in over a decade there is no opposition in the race for selectman. The fifteen candidates for tax collector, however, are expected to attract a large number of voters to the polls.

Senator Frank Babcock yesterday informed the local highway safety committee that the senate committee had approved the rerouting bill whereby the state department of public works would be given the power to divert truck traffic around towns.

An open discussion of the town departmental budgets and the special articles will take place next Wednesday evening when the annual open meeting of the Andover Taxpayers' association will be held in the town hall.

The literature department of the November club will have charge of the meeting next Monday afternoon. Rev. Palfrey Perkins will speak on

THE PUBLIC FORUM

THE TOWNSMAN, MARCH 3, 1988

Fact Or Fiction?

To The Editor Of The TOWNSMAN:

Discussions concerning the financing of the collaborative school (CS) raise many important and complex questions. Ultimately, once all the facts are available for examination and consideration, the Finance Committee, Board of Selectmen and School Committee will make their recommendations. In the meantime, teachers have legitimate questions regarding the financial implications for future teacher negotiations as well as for meeting any upcoming physical needs the schools might have. However, as might be expected when plans are incomplete and the "experts" have yet to render their opinion, rumors and misinformation run rampant at cocktail parties, over coffee and in letters to the editors; as we all know, it becomes difficult to separate fact from fiction.

According to state and local officials and legal opinion, we do know the following:

The legislature has passed a bill authorizing the state to assume 90 percent of the cost to construct and furnish the school. The bill is so structured that, assuming a total cost of $30 million, Andover would need to issue long-term bonds only in the amount of $3 million. The annual cost to carry these bonds would be approximately $300,000 of which Lawrence would be responsible for $200,000. The net cost to Andover would, therefore, be $100,000 per year. This would not be paid out of the school budget; rather, it is an overall town liability. To put this into perspective, in fiscal 1989 Andover's net payments on issued debt would be approximately $4,671,000; the CS payment would add only $100,000 to this figure. Clearly, the cost to the town for construction of the CS would be relatively small and should have virtually no effect on Andover's ability to raise capital for future building needs, school or otherwise.

The other half of the equation, of course, is state funding for the annual operating costs. As of this writing, the "enabling legislation" has passed the House and is awaiting Senate action: this should occur within the next few weeks. If the bill passes in its present form, state reimbursements will completely cover the annual operating expenses. However, it is possible that during final legislative discussions the available funds could be reduced. What, then, would be the implications for the town. Let's assume, for the sake of discussion, that state funds would cover only 90 percent of the estimated $6 million annual budget. Andover's share would be approximately $200,000 (1/3 of 10 percent) or approximately 1 percent of the town's current school budget. (Even if we assume that future salary negotiations and inflation render the $6 million figure conservative, we must also assume that the entire school budget would increase and the relative percent (1 percent) would remain the same.) Remember, this is a "worst case" scenario; under the bill as it is currently written, the town would incur no cost for operating expenses at all.

To take this one step further, in our "worst case" scenario, the total annual cost to the town for both capital and operating expenses would be approximately $300,000 or only .63 percent of the total town budget of $47,000,000.

What commitment do we have that the state will continue to fund the school after the first year or two?

Interestingly, this is an argument that opponents used when regional schools were introduced some 30 years ago; as we all know, the state has never wavered from its obligation to regional schools. In fact, according to the enabling legislation, the CS will be treated as a regional school for funding purposes. The implications? The state has 351 cities and towns and approximately 82 regional schools; all 433 depend on annual state reimbursements to cover a portion if not all of their yearly expenses. The CS will be added to this list and receive its annual funding in the same manner as every other school district in the state; it will not, as some have suggested, be subject to a special annual appropriation.

Moreover, in 1985, the state enacted Chapter 188, The Public School Improvement Act "...to ensure equity of educational opportunity: to equalize fiscal resources among school districts." If anything, this commitment is being increased: "With the targeted infusion of $161 million in equal educational opportunity grants since fiscal year 1986, spending disparities between our wealthiest and poorest communities are beginning to narrow and we have begun to improve educational opportunities for children in our lowest income communities." (See "Report of the Special Commission of the Conditions of Teaching.") In short, Massachusetts is committed to providing equal education for all and this will probably ensure that funding is not reduced. Why? Would it make any sense for the Legislature to spend some $30,000,000 to build a new school if it didn't intend to fund the annual operating costs, especially when one of the parties, Lawrence, depends so heavily on state funding to run its schools? In essence, our collaboration with Lawrence is probably our greatest insurance that the necessary state funding will be forthcoming in the future.

Further indication of the state's future support is the special commission's recent proposal for a grants program supporting creation of "professional development schools" that "...are jointly designed and administered by school and college staff...in which one or more higher education institutions agree to work collaboratively with the faculty to design and implement training programs for new and experienced teachers at the site." A number of Massachusetts colleges have already had a series of meetings with the project director, Dennis Richards, based on their interest and involvement; the Andover/Lawrence Collaborative School could become the prototype for the entire state.

The demand for state assistance to increase classroom space is acute throughout the Commonwealth. The Legislature's stated priority is to first assist the urban areas which are in most need; needless to say, Andover is not high on this list. However, due to the unique nature of the CS, the state is willing to provide both special funding for its construction and annual reimbursements for its operation. In our opinion, Andover should take advantage of an opportunity it is not likely to see again.

Rick Elias

No Problem

To The Editor Of The TOWNSMAN:

Instead of a long argument about the proposed collaborative school, all I have is a fairly short question about the classroom mix and its rate of progress.

Andover students would be joined by twice as many Lawrence students who, on average, have lower academic scores.

If each classroom will contain students of similar achievement, I see no scholastic problem.

But if, for the sake of collaboration or for any other reason, each class will contain both fast and slower students, won't the slower students set the learning pace for the entire class?

Accuracy

To The Editor Of The TOWNSMAN:

In the interest of accuracy and truth, I must correct some misinformation apparently conveyed at the Selectmen's meeting of Jan. 4. Mr. Mahony, while reviewing Jeffrey Sheehy's Town Meeting article seeking to rezone the old Knights of Columbus property, located at Osgood Road and near Raytheon's rear entrance, from residential to industrial, stated that Sheehy has some kind of right to property across the road at the same intersection—my property. Since that public cable broadcast, I have been compelled several times to explain that this statement is not true. Mr. Sheehy has never had any claim on my property.

If Mr. Sheehy misled Mr. Mahony, Mr. Mahony unwittingly misinformed the Selectmen and the citizens of Andover via the broadcast. Misinformation like this can influence the outcome of Town Meeting; therefore, I ask the selectmen, in the interest of fairness and accuracy, to publicly correct this statement in their next broadcast. I do not know if any other misinformation has been generated regarding this rezoning issue. I do know that Sheehy's article was defeated last year at Town Meeting. I have been told that an article, once defeated cannot be reintroduced the next year, and so I am surprised that Mr. Sheehy has been given a waiver and is being allowed to present this article again.

Abbot Concerns

To The Editor Of The TOWNSMAN:

I have been very happy to hear that Phillips Academy is able to restore and preserve the Abbot Academy buildings. However, I have several concerns about what is currently Article 96 on the Town Warrant, which seeks to modify the way one of the buildings can be used for multifamily dwelling purposes by both allowing such conversions in SRB zones and modifying the conditions under which it can be done.

My concerns are as follows:

First, I find this article to be very self-serving and it sounds very much like spot zoning. To the best of my knowledge, there are only eight structures in Andover that will be affected by this article and three of them are owned by the town itself. All of the rest are owned by one property owner.

Second, I am concerned about the impact of multifamily dwellings in a single family neighborhood. I see this as being very disruptive and a factor that could demonstrably affect the harmony and character of the neighborhood.

Third, this article seeks to change the wording of the existing bylaw which was put in place by the Town of Andover to protect its residents. Certain key phrases, such as "provide for all-weather safety, drainage, and dust control satisfactory to the Board of Appeals," "avoid visual intrusion by the development into the surrounding areas," "design of the land and building uses," "building alterations," and "shall serve to further the harmony of the premises with the surrounding neighborhood"

The Andover High School girls basketball team will be going to the state quarter finals Saturday afternoon at Methuen High School.

They qualified for the tournament after defeating Boston Latin High School, 39-33, Tuesday, March 1, and Chelmsford High, 49-44, Thursday, Feb. 25 (pictured on this page).

Andover, led by Lee Dziadosz who had 17 points, beat the Lions in both games this year.

Christ Church In First

Christ Church took sole possession of first place in the Andover Church Basketball League Intermediate Girls' Division (10-13 years) by trimming St. Augustine's A 20-13 in action last week at the West Elementary School gym.

In other games, St. Robert's B nipped previously undefeated St. Robert's A 29-28 and Ballardvale United ripped St. Augustine's B 46-8.

Christ Church, 20-13

St. Augustine's A held the powerful Christ Church offense to its lowest score of the season but could not generate enough points to pull off an upset.

Christ took a 4-2 first-period lead, increased it 10-5 at halftime and 16-7 after three periods.

Lindsey Sweeney had 14 points, Nicole Angelos added 6, while Amy Kattapuram, Carmela Sapienza and Melissa Wright were defensive standouts.

Marcia Gemmell had 6 points for SAA, Amy Cassidy chipped in 4 and Beth Everett 3.

St. Robert's B, 29-28

Karen Babine netted a basket with 0:04 left on the clock to lift St. Robert's B to a 29-28 victory over St. Robert's A.

Women, Negotiations & Divorce

Most property and custody settlements are reached through negotiations rather than litigation. Negotiations can be difficult when a marriage has broken down and feelings have been hurt. You may fear that you will be overpowered in this process by both your husband and your attorney, and be coerced into accepting a settlement which does not meet your needs. The advice of an attorney both knowledgeable in family law and sensitive to your fears and wishes can help you assert your rights and negotiate a fair settlement.

Bantam Gold Tops Tewksbury

In the last three outings, Andover won two games over Tewksbury and tied the third.

In Andover's first victory, alternating goals were scored between the teams with Joe Ligouri starting the scoring with assists going to Smith and Shine. Tewksbury scored within three minutes.

Jay Coburn scored at the outset of the second period on a lead pass from Ken Leng. Tewksbury tied the score.

The game remained tied until five minutes into the third period when John Melillo scored with the assist going to Colin Nix. Andover won 3-2.

Two weeks later, these evenly matched teams skated to a 1-1 tie with the Andover goal being scored by Leng on an unassisted, length-of-the-ice play. Andover had strong goaltending by Michelle DeStefano and good defensive play by Shine, Smith, Leng and Constantine.

The third contest was a near-perfect game for Andover. Although trailing by a goal early in the game, Kevin Smith tied it up within a minute of the Tewksbury goal on a feed from Melillo.

Besides playing a strong defensive game, Jonathan Shine picked up three points on a goal and two assists. He had several effective slap shots from the point. The first shot, fed to him by Nix, resulted in a goal with Nix getting the assist. The second goal was set up by a pass from Melillo to Shine who took the slap shot from the blue line. Joey Ligouri put the puck in on the rebound.

The final goal was shot from the blue line by Jonathan Shine and deflected in by Coburn. There was strong offensive play in the corners by Vail, Coburn, Smith and Ligouri while the defensive unit held Tewksbury at bay. Strong goaltending by DeStefano and aggressive defense by Shine, Pothier, Dalton and Leng made the difference on the 4-2 Andover victory.

Sue Sherman joins owner Jennifer Johnston for tea.

Consignment Galleries: Affordable Luxuries

Located in the charming white Victorian house in the center of Elm Square, is Jennifer Johnston's Consignment Galleries. As part of an international franchise with stores throughout the United States and in London, England, Consignment Galleries accepts antiques, paintings, crystal, china, furniture, lamps, jewelry and a wide assortment of quality collectables.

Jennifer's merchandise comes from individuals who are moving, cleaning or re-decorating. Articles are taken on consignment for a period of ninety days, however, Jennifer stated, "I have found thirty-five days to be the normal turn-over time." Therefore, the inventory is constantly changing.

Articles in good condition are welcomed, except clothing and appliances. Jennifer will gladly come to your home to evaluate large pieces and will arrange pick up services. Small items may be brought to the store for appraisal.

Jennifer then prices, displays and widely advertises the merchandise. On the sale of an item, the consignor receives 2/3 of the selling price and Consignment Galleries retains 1/3 for services performed.

Jennifer and her assistant Sue Sherman invite you to drop in and examine the fascinating articles that are on display. They would be glad to answer any of your questions and give you further information regarding consignment.

Consignment Galleries is open from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., Mon-Sat with ample free parking.

Permanent Waves Unisex Salon

After gaining eight years of experience working at different hairstyling salons, Judy DeLuca decided it was time she did things her way. And, her way is your way!

"Just thought we'd like to remind you that if you are tired of getting what the hairstylist wants and not what you want, put your at ease! Permanent Waves will make your hairstyling ideas a reality," stated Judy. Stylists Pricilla Hebert and Sandy Pappalardo agree that they are there to meet your desires, not theirs.

They invite you to stop in any time, as walk-ins are always welcomed at Permanent Waves Unisex Salon. Or, if you prefer, make an appointment so that they may serve you at your convenience.

The Matrix Synergized System of hair care is used exclusively by Permanent Waves. A major breakthrough in hair care chemistry was made by Matrix Essentials, with the development of the Alphatone Complex. The Alphatone Complex has the ability to penetrate to the hair's inner core, enabling it to restore hair's strength, resilience and moisture balance. This is a complete professional line of service and home care maintenance products designed to give you healthy-looking, shining hair.

Permanent Waves also offers Matrix "Vavoom" which is new technique of giving body to your hair without a "perm."

This modern salon is located at 315 East Haverhill St., Lawrence at the corner of Marston St. in the former C & C Beauty Supply building. Open Tues thru Fri., 9-5, Sat., 8-3. Tel. 975-2134.

Doherty Parents

The School Improvement Council has proposed several ways to utilize this year's allotment of state funds. Proposed to the School Committee by David Blank and Amy Habeeb, elected student representatives, the suggestions include a portable language lab, Academic Bowl equipment, funds to support Friday night activities, a portable drinking fountain, writing workshops, cultural programs and funds to support a school beautification program. It was noted that the long-awaited picnic tables are in place and, with the coming spring weather, will certainly see plenty of use.

Dr. Richard McGrail, Doherty principal, encouraged all parents to attend the high school orientation sessions at the Collins Center. Parents of eighth-graders had a curriculum meeting on February 24. Parents of ninth-graders are scheduled to meet Thursday, March 10, at 7:30 p.m.

The next PAC meeting will be held Thursday, April 14, in the Doherty Media Center at 7:30 p.m.

Computers

throughout the elementary years. An in-service course was offered this year by Jeff Winoker from Wheelock College and several teachers in the system to update teachers with the SKIIS curriculum. Winoker presented five workshops which helped teachers provide additional experimental activities for students. West Elementary teacher Kerry Costello, who is working on a committee to upgrade the SKIIS curriculum, also presented a workshop to help teachers revitalize this curriculum. Consultants will also be used in the in-service program to make recommendations for needed modifications.

Since many computer systems have been added at the elementary schools, it was important that appropriate educational software be purchased to support the science curriculum. George Blakeslee from Lesley College demonstrated various software programs that could be used with this curriculum. Several software packages have been purchased and teachers are beginning to modify their programs with these packages. There are some programs from MECC (a Minnesota-based organization that develops educational software programs) which are excellent. The Science Toolkit module from Broderbund contains light and temperature probeware that allow students to record and graph scientific data. The package comes with suggested activities, but teachers are free to devise their own experiments using the interface equipment. Other packages that have been purchased include programs to dissect a frog, teach the parts of the body, assist with the building of an energy-efficient home, graph experimental data and a program by Tom Snyder entitled "Geoworld." This program allows students to use critical thinking and research skills to discover which countries throughout the world contain large deposits of natural resources. It is a program that can be used by both science and social studies instructors.

Robert Hatem and Ann Buschene, science department heads at Doherty and West Junior high schools respectively, have also purchased educational software to reinforce their science programs. Software has been purchased to help students learn about sound, machines, work, energy and the chemical properties of enzymes. In addition, probeware software from Human Relations Media (HRM) is being used in the chemistry classes to help students collect and display data during experiments. Temperature and light probes are used to measure data performed in the laboratory which can then be stored on a disk, analyzed and later printed in student lab reports.

High school teachers are also using probeware to enhance classes in physics and chemistry. Software programs from Vernier Corporation allow teachers to develop experiments where students can use the computer in the lab to measure and display data. Students can also use these programs to discover the relationships of various scientific formulas. Physics teachers Robert King and David Wilkinson use a program from the Vernier series entitled "Graphical Analysis" so that students can really understand the relationships between time, distance, acceleration and velocity. Students use the power of the computer to study a formula rather than commit it to memory. They are quite pleased with the capabilities of these programs and hope to learn more about their effectiveness throughout the year. King believes that the science curriculum at the high school has always been strong, but it needs to incorporate the power of the computer. He feels that students will need to use the computer frequently in post high school education.

An exciting new course at the high school this year is being team-taught by Ted Johnson, computer information department head, and Marge Dugal, mathematics teacher. This course combines the disciplines of computers, chemistry and Algebra II. Students receive three periods of instruction where these subjects are integrated and activities are planned by both teachers. Part of the funding was derived by a grant by GTE which both teachers developed. The grant has allowed for the purchase of computers, educational software, supplies and fees for consultants assisting with the curriculum development.

Another exciting piece of technology that was purchased with Massachusetts grant funds is the videodisk. This type of hardware allows a teacher to access 54,000 slides of information on each side of the disk. A laser beam reads the material off the disk by individual slides, a series of slides or in a continuous movie format. These disks can contain beautiful slides of data that can be used in many curriculums. Several disks have been purchased for the science and fine arts departments. Teachers can either use a remote control or a computer to access the data. Individualized lessons can be developed by both teachers and students with the authoring language software. Disks from National Geographic have been purchased on whales, the planets and space exploration. Disks which contain slides from the National Gallery of Art and "The Helga Pictures" will soon be used by the fine arts department.

Identify your home with a LIGHT-HOUSE.

The LIGHT-HOUSE: Home Identification Made Easy

Have you ever stopped and thought about how many people come to your house?

How many of these individuals have told you they would have been there earlier but they had a hard time finding your house? This need never happen again after you install the LIGHT-HOUSE.

This is a product that has been test marketed for two years and was only available through catalog sales. Now, Stellar Products Ltd. at 9 Bartlett St., Andover, offers you this unique item.

The LIGHT-HOUSE family of products brings you an easy, visible, means of residence identification (usually a house number) of illuminated fixtures, that are reliable, easy to install and operate, and are attractively designed. There are multiple modes of operation that allow you to select one to match your situation. Should you be expecting dinner guest, you may choose the flashing white mode so that they will quickly identify your home. Friends who know your home, will appreciate the continuous illumination afforded by the LIGHT-HOUSE. Should an emergency arise, a flashing red mode is available to signal police, fire or medical assistance.

This is a product that must be seen to be appreciated. Call Charlie Roszko at 475-8961 today for further information. The LIGHT-HOUSE will also be featured at the Lawrence Chamber of Commerce Business Expo at the Sheraton Rolling Green in Andover on March 21st from 11 a.m. to 7 p.m.

have all been modified or deleted by this article.

Fourth, this article seeks to dramatically increase the density that is allowed, from one dwelling unit per 3,500 square feet of land to one dwelling unit per 2,000 square feet of land. As the article is for SRB, which requires twice the land per dwelling unit than SRA, any proposed bylaw amendment for multifamily dwelling units in SRB zones should allow one dwelling unit per 7,000 square feet of land.

Fifth, this article seeks to remove the text in the current bylaw that defines "land" as "lot area plus land committed to public recreation or conservation use within six hundred (600) feet of the structure." This article uses the term "lot area." We need to keep the definition of land as we now have it.

Sixth, there is no provision in this article that protects the Maple Walk on Abbot Street from development.

Seventh, there are no provisions in this article that properly address the issue of the wetland area on Abbot Street and the impact of development on the surrounding homes.

Eighth, this article seeks to change the conditions for parking, by following the standard residential code rather than the multifamily dwelling bylaw. It has the same number of spaces per unit, but all else is changed or deleted, such as the text on "avoid visual intrusion." If we have a good bylaw in place now to protect us, then I see no need to change it.

In conclusion, I look forward to having the Abbot Academy buildings be restored. However, I personally feel that a better usage plan needs to be developed in concert with the neighborhood and that this article itself is very seriously flawed and needs to be voted down at Town Meeting.

Down The Years

"Emily Dickenson."

25 Years Ago — February 1963

Why does Pomp's Pond bear the name "Pomp"? Most interested residents know, probably, that a liberated slave named Pomp lived on its banks - thus the name. Another part of the story is that Pomp was given his freedom at the time of the Revolutionary War, by the father of Dr. James Jackson, a co-founder of the Massachusetts General Hospital.

Additional pledges have been received from interested residents and business firms, supporting the new Andover Center Development Corporation. Joseph B. Doherty was elected temporary president of the corporation Monday night.

Candidates for the town's major offices went down to the wire swinging this week, with Monday's election deadline in plain view. Three men seek a single seat on the Board of Selectmen; two candidates want one place on the School Committee; and three are seeking a lone Housing Authority position. In addition, two hotly-debated questions are on the ballot - 48-hour work-week for firefighters and acceptance of the vocational school.

John F. Matthews of Matthews Associates of Andover, has just completed a six-week textile consulting assignment at the Kalinin Combine in Kalinin, U.S.S.R.

Council 1978, Knights of Columbus, is conducting a fund raising drive for its new building.

10 Years Ago — February 1978

There will be only one contest on the March 27 town election ballot, that for three-year term on the board selectmen. Terrence Prout, who had filed nomination papers for the one-year term for selectmen, had to be removed from the ballot since he filed insufficient number of signatures on his nomination papers. The action results in Mrs. Virginia H. Cole, being the only candidate.

A group of residents from the Fosters Pond area turned up Monday night to ask selectmen to reconsider last week's approval of a gravel removal permit off Andover Street in Wilmington. The selectmen took the matter "under advisement."

Andover High's basketball team, Merrimack Valley Conference champions with a 17-1 season record, has drawn a bye in the first round of the Eastern Mass. basketball tournament. The Golden Warriors will begin their bid for the state title next Monday at North Andover High field house when they meet the winner of the Lowell-Reading game scheduled Saturday.

Robb, who was not present at Tuesday night's meeting, the School Committee unanimously voted to accept the request to withdraw the item from the warrant.

Susan Poore, chairman of the School Committee, expressed reservations about a special Town Meeting in the fall. She said "I hope it's not intended to ask for a special town meeting."

Dennis Richards, Collaborative School project director, said yesterday, he "anticipates that we'll have to ask for a special Town Meeting rather than to wait until next year." He said "a year is a real long time to wait."

Richards says the issue is important and he thinks voters would be pleased to focus on it at a special meeting.

Groups in favor of and against the proposed Collaborative School understand the delayed vote.

Rick Elias, head of Citizens for Excellence in Education (CEE), the group in favor of the Collaborative School says he's disappointed that they're not going to move forward with the project. But, he said "it would be foolish to go to Town Meeting until everything is settled." He says he understands that there's no way to get all the information out before the Town Meeting.

John Dziadul, head of Citizens for Neighborhood Schools (CNS), the group opposed to the school, said "I'm not surprised." He said "the delay is unfortunate but understandable."

Dziadul says CNS is ready for Town Meeting. "If it (a vote) happens in two months or six months, we'll still be prepared," he said.

REALTOR

BUILDING THE DREAM HOUSE

Some builders will tell you that they can build a house in 90 to 120 days but rarely, so very rarely, is a house really ready for occupancy 50 or even 120 days after ground-breaking. Even more rarely can a buyer do anything to speed up the process. Actual closing dates usually run one to six months, or more after the date in the contract.

If you are selling your old home while having another one built for you (which is usually the case), allow plenty of time beyond the paper closing date on the new property before closing on the old. You can calculate a rough estimate of how much extra time you'll need by talking with people who have already had homes built by your builder.

The risk of setting too early a closing date on your old house is obvious. You'll be forced to move out of it with nowhere to move into. Such a situation could intensify the emotional stress of a move and cost you a bundle in extra living and storage expenses.

REAL ESTATE GUIDELINES

Realty U.S.A.
Schruender Real Estate

OFFERS AND COUNTER OFFERS

Many of the offer we write for prospective buyers aren't exactly what the sellers want. The price may be lower than what the sellers are asking, or there might be terms that will require some negotiating. What happens after the offer is written?

First, the Realtor will present it to the sellers, usually in person. He or she will explain the buyer's qualifications and the details of the offer itself. If the sellers accept the offer as it stands, the house is sold. If, however, they counter the offer, the ball is thrown back in the buyers court, but the sellers may withdraw their counter if another offer comes in before the first one is fully ratified. If you're trying to buy a house, your chances of success are far greater if your offer is as close as possible to what the sellers actually want. If you do engage in lengthy price or terms negotiations, you could save a considerable amount of money, but if another contract comes in, you do run the risk of losing the home to other buyers.

For solid advice on buying or selling real estate, consult the professional at Realty USA Schruender Real Estate. Please call us at 685-5000 or stop by our offices at 73 Chickering Road, North Andover.

LANDOWNERS!

It's time to do "deep hole" and "perc" tests.

Development of land requires extensive testing and planning. It often requires months to obtain construction approvals for single family homes. Soil tests must be performed during the spring months to gain septic system approvals.

Contact our office for a free consultation in obtaining these approvals for your home construction or to substantially increase the value of property you intend to sell.

It is extremely important to act NOW if you intend to buy or sell land during the coming year.

SHED Program Continues At Shawsheen For Another Year

By Julie M. Barry

The Shawsheen Extended Day (SHED) program will remain at its current location in the Shawsheen School for the 1988-'89 academic year. But, SHED must find other accommodations the following year.

The School Committee reached this decision at its meeting Tuesday night.

SHED is a privately funded corporation licensed by the Office for Children. It rents space at Shawsheen School. SHED does not fall under the auspices of the town or school department administration.

Space problems have threatened the survival of SHED. Linnea Gershenberg, coordinator of the Shawsheen School, says there's 100 more students in the school than when they moved to its location four years ago. She said "we need to find room for next year, and we don't know where the space is coming from."

Gershenberg says one more classroom will be needed to accommodate the students next year. She says there's two options to create space. They are converting the music room or the activity center space into a classroom. Gershenberg's proposal states that "the center's attempts to find an additional space for a classroom would seriously compromise its educational program." Currently, the activity center is used for special activities and special needs classes.

Gershenberg says it's not an ideal situation that SHED is remaining at Shawsheen School. She says she still hopes the space problem may be solved in time for the upcoming academic year. "I hope they use public energy now, to start solving the problem," Gershenberg said.

Joan Pearson, director of Community Services, says SHED has looked at ways to solve the space problem. Portable classrooms are being considered as alternatives.

Superintendent of Schools Kenneth Seifert said "the need for day care far exceeds a few portable classrooms in Andover."

According to Susan Poore, committee chairman, SHED is not the School Committee's financial responsibility. But, she added, the committee are responsible because of the link between the Early Childhood Center and SHED.

Poore said that "the School Committee and the administration have acknowledged that there is a need (for day care)." But she says it is a town issue, not just a school issue.

Committee member Richard Neal says he thinks the School Committee should work with the town of Andover to solve the day care problem.

"I hope it's not a search for school space but for a day care that's good for the community as a whole," Neal said.

Seifert says that both the community and the private sector should be involved in the day care issue.

Lecture

Lesley Stahl, CBS News national affairs correspondent, will deliver the second lecture of the 1987-88 Salem State College Series on Monday, March 14, at 7:30 p.m. in the college O'Keefe Center, Canal Street, Salem.

Stahl joined CBS News in 1972 as a Washington-based reporter and was named correspondent two years later. She was assigned the White House beat in 1979 after serving as Washington co-anchor of the "CBS Morning News" from October 1977 to December 1978.

Stahl has covered all phases of Watergate, the Geneva Summit, the Iranian hostage crisis and the assassination attempt on President Reagan. She has the distinction of being the first woman to serve as regional anchor for CBS News election night coverage for the 1974 gubernatorial races.

Appointed

The Andover Marriott has appointed Gary Allen manager of Ticket's Lounge. He was transferred from the Marriott's Host Airport Division in Pittsburgh, Penna., where he was responsible for and operated eight lounges in the terminal building.
